RIGHT TO SPEED WPA SPENDING IS REQUESTED

President Wants Permission To Use Funds in 8 Months If Necessary.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 18—President Roosevelt proposed today that Congress accept his budget recommendation of $975,000,000 for WPA in the next fiscal year but grant him or the WPA commissioner authority to expend the entire sum in eight months, if necessary.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote the speaker of the house that if the $975,000,000 scheduled for expenditure in the year beginning July 1, were spread over 12 months it would provide an average employment of only about 1,330,000.

The President said his budget estimate had been based on hopes for improved employment and business but that those hopes had not been entirely realized. He said it also is difficult to predict the employment volume for the entire 1941 fiscal year.

Views Work Proposals

But omitting any major fluctuations resulting from events abroad the President said, private employment in the next fiscal year should be as high as in the current year.

"In my judgment," he wrote in a letter read to the house, "the most logical action that the congress could take at this time would be to appropriate the budget item for the work projects administration but to lodge discretionary authority in me or in the commissioner of work projects to expend this amount in the first eight months of the fiscal year, on condition that unemployment conditions in the country are such as to require such expenditures within that period.

"I can assure you that if this discretionary authority is provided in the appropriation act, the appropriation will not be expended within the eight months unless it is absolutely necessary to avoid suffering and hardship."

Economy advocates, although planning to fight the proposal, said congress probably would approve it. Senator Adams, Democrat of Colorado, chairman of the senate committee which will handle the relief bill, objected to the eight months' basis.

"I think we should appropriate for a full year so we can know what the bill is going to be," he said.

Explain President's Stand

Some well-informed legislators said the President took the position that no one could tell at this point whether the $975,000,000 would be sufficient and that if private industry, stimulated by war orders, absorbed sufficient unemployment, extra relief funds would not be required in the next fiscal year.

In addition, they said that tax receipts for last year were running about $300,000,000 ahead of expectations and that these, coupled with the prospect that congress would effect a net saving of between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 in budget estimates, would make new taxes unnecessary at this session—provided the relief appropriation was held to $975,000,000.

The house met an hour earlier than usual today in an effort to dispose of the Logan-Walter bill to provide quick court review of decisions by federal agencies, but growing opposition threatened to delay its passage.

The senate took up the $964,000,000 naval appropriation bill after voting $223,636,517 for civil functions of the war department.

NORWEGIAN SAILOR SAYS BREMEN SUNK

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 18 — Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, today quoted a Norwegian survivor of the torpedoed British steamer Stancliffe as saying the German liner Bremen had sunk off Norway with 15,000 troops.

The seaman, named Rydningen, was saved after the Stancliffe was torpedoed off the north Scottish coast last Friday.

The agency quoted Rydningen as saying that a telegram announcing safe arrival at a Norwegian port had been found in the Bremen captain's pocket and that it was sent to Germany by Norwegian authorities.

(German authorities in Berlin last week denied earlier reports that the Bremen had been sunk early in the occupation of Denmark and Norway. Today authorized German sources said they had no information on the liner but that the latest report sounds like "the same old swindle which has been frequently revived by the British.")

Alfalfa Drying Plant May Be Built in County

Project To Come Before Meeting of Farmers at Morral.

Plans for a meeting of farmers at Morral Friday night to arrange contracts for alfalfa acreages with a view to establishment of a drying plant were announced today by George H. McNelly of Toledo. Mr. McNelly, president of the Ohio Alfalfa Products Co. of Toledo, has called the meeting for 8 o'clock tomorrow night at Morral school.

Mr. McNelly is particularly interested in having farmers within a radius of six miles of Morral attend the meeting. Morral was selected as a possible site for a dehydrating plant because of shipping facilities and because of the large farms around the community, Mr. McNelly said.

Plans for establishing the drying plant, which would cost about $100,000 and employ as many as 25 men, hinge upon the success of efforts to line up about 1,000 acres of alfalfa, necessary for operation of the plant, Mr. McNelly said. At a dehydrating plant the alfalfa is dried and made into meal for poultry feed. Mr. McNelly has been in and around Marion for the last six months, working in behalf of the proposed plant.

If everything works out satisfactorily, the plant would be built next winter and the first alfalfa cuttings would be processed in June, he said. There are three cuttings of alfalfa yearly.

Mr. McNelly reported the Toledo company now has plants at LeRoy, N. Y., Erie, Pa., Erie, Mich., Tallahassee, Fla., and Payne, O., and has one planned at Rushville, Pa.

TRIPLET BABIES BORN WITHOUT MEDICAL AID

By The Associated Press

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., April 18—The amazed father of triplet girls born prematurely without medical aid said today he'd probably keep the names nurses had given the babies—April, May and June.

"Oh my God," cried John Reed, part-time steel worker, upon learning his 25-year-old wife had given birth to triplets in the midst of moving into a new two-room cottage.

The babies, weighing eight pounds, seven and a half ounces, were getting along nicely in hospital incubators where they were taken in a big roasting pan. The mother, also doing well, commented "I'm just a little tired." She has two other children.

ACQUITTAL WON BY HOLLAND

Freed of Arson Charge by Jury After Thirty-Minute Deliberation.

Special to The Star

TROY, O., April 18—Gustav A. Holland, former Marion mill official accused of hiring the Holland Mills in Piqua burned, was acquitted late yesterday by a common pleas court jury after only 30 minutes of deliberation.

Holland had been accused of arson, the state charging that he induced William Dowty, former employe, to set the mill on fire to rid his own Holland Pioneer Mills of competition.

Holland thanked each juror personally after the verdict was read, shaking hands with each of the six men and six women. Mrs. Holland, who was on hand through the trial, broke down and cried.

The jury received the case at 3:05 yesterday and reported back at 3:35. It is understood there was little discussion and that only one ballot was taken.

It is understood that Holland will continue operation of his own mill at Piqua. The burned mills, owned by the Glidden Co. of Cleveland, are not expected to be started again. It was stated in the trial that the Glidden Co. had sold its formulae and good will to Old Fort Mills, Inc.

Holland's trial began a week ago Wednesday. The only testimony linking Holland with the fire was that of Dowty, who is now serving a sentence in Mansfield reformatory for the fire.

Holland, after leaving Marion, headed the Holland Mills at Piqua but quit last October to start his own mill there.

EX-CONVICT KILLED IN LIMA SHOOTING

Brought Down After He Fires at Erie Police Officer.

Lt. C. W. Gilgen of the Erie railroad police escaped with a minor bullet wound in a gun battle in which he fatally wounded a Negro ex-convict yesterday at Lima.

Word of the shooting was received by Lt. Gilgen's superior, Capt. H. E. Cardiff of Marion. Lt. Gilgen, although he has never worked in Marion, is widely known among railroad men here.

According to information received by Capt. Cardiff, Lt. Gilgen saw the Negro, James Clark, 47, on the railroad property and called for him to come to him. Instead the Negro began shooting, one of the shots nicking Lt. Gilgen on the ankle. Each man fired four shots, one of the officer's fatally injuring Clark, who died enroute to a hospital. Lima police, called by Lt. Gilgen, took charge after the shooting.

AP Reporter Finds British in Control of Port at Narvik

J. Norman Lodge, veteran Associated Press reporter, slipped across the closely guarded Swedish border into northern Norway to obtain the following first hand account of the situation at Narvik.

By J. NORMAN LODGE

VANNAS, Sweden, April 18—British marines and soldiers are consolidating their foothold in northern Norway as Germans, driving Norwegian defense troops before them, retreat to the south.

I have just returned after a journey afoot through Norwegian frontier areas which took me to the outskirts of Narvik before I was arrested by British troops.

A show of my passport gave me my freedom—but that was short-lived. As I started out in an effort to tour the region to determine the situation, I was arrested again and turned over to the Norwegian authorities back of Narvik.

Because I lacked a visa on my passport, I was ordered back to the border.

Told British In Command

I was told that the British occupied Narvik, the ore-shipping port, and points north, south and east, after debarking at Harstad, 30 miles up the coast.

(DNB, official German news agency, said in a statement that the Germans are in Narvik, "today, April 18, and are in possession not only of the harbor, but of the city." A further statement said that additional information received from Narvik early this afternoon reported the situation there unchanged.)

I found British marines in possession of Elvegaard, 10 miles south of Narvik. They also have driven east from Narvik some 15 or 16 miles to Bjorksden, only a short distance from the Swedish frontier.

In between these points the British were established at Oyjord and Gratanjen. They also were holding Elvegaardsmoen, five miles north of Narvik, and Harstad, their main point of debarkation 30 miles farther up the coast.

Says Nazis Retreat

As the Nazis retreated they drove before them small units of the Norwegian army, with whom they engaged in a series of skirmishes.

The Germans apparently were careful to stay well west of the Swedish frontier as they moved southward to avoid the danger of inadvertently crossing the border and being interned.

Five Swedish sailors who were in Narvik when the Germans took over the town but succeeded later in making their way to the border gave an eye-witness account of the naval battle which ensued on the arrival of the British.

They said they had seen two German warships sunk by British planes which bombed the harbor district, and had seen several others driven ashore in Rombak fjord.

A Berlin account of the Narvik situation written the day before Mr. Lodge's story was dispatched from Europe appears on the editorial page.

People Hide in Cellars

Many of the inhabitants, forbidden by the Germans to leave the town, took refuge in their cellars during the battle, the Swedes said.

A communique issued last night by the commander-in-chief of the Norwegian army said the Norwegians still were holding their positions on both sides of Lake Mjosen, between Oslo and Hamar, which is about 60 miles north of the capital.

The communique acknowledged that Norwegian forces south of Lake Mjosen, in the Begna valley, had retreated to new positions, but said the Fossum fortifications in the Myggen area east of Oslo still were in Norwegian hands.

"On all fronts we took prisoners,

BALKANS LOOK TOWARD SOVIET FOR SUPPORT

Hope Moscow Will Ward Off German Invasion in Southeastern Europe.

By The Associated Press

BUDAPEST, April 18—Hungary is contemplating talks with Soviet Russia to ward off a possible German invasion of southeastern Europe, authoritative persons said today.

Just as Rumania and Yugoslavia appeared to be turning toward Moscow for support of their neutrality, Hungary, long regarded as the most anti-Soviet nation in Europe, was believed planning to follow a similar course.

The hope for Russian support was based principally on the belief that the Russians, despite their nonaggression and trade alliance with the reich, are against any German advance into the Balkans and may be able to bring enough pressure on Germany to hold her off.

The Yugoslav government has announced that a delegation would leave for Moscow to sign a treaty for a resumption of trade relations severed since the Russian revolution.

It was believed that this move was designed to strength Yugoslavia's difficult position and possibly to lead to establishment of diplomatic relations.

Rumania Seeks Agreement

Rumania, which in recent days has been beset by an increased fear of a Russian attack on Bessarabia—Rumania territory which has had a period under Russian rule—was reported to have reached a tentative agreement with Moscow for a retirement of the armies of both countries six miles behind their respective frontiers.

There is much less faith now—in Hungary's case especially—in Italy's influence to keep Germany out of the Balkans. In some quarters there is a growing suspicion that if Germany were to drive into Dalmatia and possibly Croatia, sections of Yugoslavia, to "protect her interests" there.

Meanwhile Rumania and Yugoslavia adopted measures for expulsion of thousands of recently-arrived Germans widely suspected of being forerunners of the German army.

Turn Nearer Allies

In addition to rounding up these "visitors," the Balkan nations lookde to their defenses, and Rumania was said in some quarters to be considering seriously the course of aligning herself with the Near East defenses system formed by the allies and Turkey.

The Dardanelles straits, ever the key to politics in this part of the world, today lay within striking distance by warships of five nations which maneuvered under secret orders. A tenseness was in the air, and Balkan newspapers stressed dispatches reporting that "Italy's hour for decision is near."

The five nations whose ships were centered about the Dardanelles, gateway to the Black sea, are Turkey, who holds the straits, Italy, France, Great Britain and Russia.

The Italian fleet was assembled in the nearby Aegean sea for what Rome calls "customary spring maneuvers." Russia was said to have laid hundreds of mines in the Black sea off her main port of Odessa and the eastern oil port of Batum.

ERIE AGENT FORCED TO SHIELD BANDITS

By The Associated Press

LITTLE FALLS, N. J., April 18—Three men, one armed with a sub-machine gun and two with revolvers, seized the Erie railroad stationmaster as a shield today and robbed two postal employes of funds being transferred from a train to a mail truck. Police said the loot totaled $19,500.

Kid McCoy Takes Own Life

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 18 — Norman Selby, who as Kid McCoy made world boxing history, killed himself today and left a note saying that at the age of 66 he could no longer endure "this world's madness."

An almost fabulous character, his last years were spent in Detroit as a Ford Motor Co. guard. He obtained the job when he was paroled from San Quentin prison where he served a term for homicide. He was accused of killing Mrs. Theresa Mora of Los Angeles, a sweetheart.

QUICK ATTACK BY NORSE SEEN

Stockholm Declares Defenders Ready To Strike In Area Around Trondheim.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, April 18 — Reports reaching here from the Norwegian frontier said today it was only a question of hours before a Norwegian attack started against German positions in the Trondheim district.

Swedish newspaper correspondents said the Norwegians were concentrated at Steinkjar, on the inner part of Trondheim fjord, and at a railroad junction connecting with Namsos, about 100 miles farther north on the coast.

These reports said it was believed the British had landed at Namsos, which they called the Britons' best base for sending reinforcements to the Norwegians in the Trondheim area.

Five German planes were reported destroyed in British air raids on German west coast positions yesterday.

Balkans Reassured by Chamberlain

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 18 — Prime Minister Chamberlain today gave assurances against any allied menace to southeastern European nations while in the north Britain's forces by land, sea and air fought to break Germany's hold on Norway.

Following a hint to non-belligerent Italy by Minister of Economic Warfare Ronald H. Cross to watch her step and to Sweden that she might be the next target of Nazi lightning, Chamberlain sought to calm some of the war worries of southeastern Europe where Britain is launching an economic offensive.

He told the house of commons that British envoys to southeastern European nations had left or were leaving for their posts after some nine days of London conferences on "outstanding problems" there.

"No one of these states . . . has any cause to fear that the allies or their forces will ever threaten their independence or integrity," he said of the Balkan and Danubian countries.

In the north, the air ministry announced two of eight on Bear's prowl. Germans raided Shetland [illegible] in which several civilians were killed. Nazi planes also [illegible] stations in west Scotland and [illegible] was bombarded by German [illegible] plane.

GRAIN PRICES HIGHEST IN LAST TWO YEARS

Price Increase Not Due to War, Experts Say.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO April 18—The wartime grain market is offering American farmers higher prices for 1940 crops than they have received the past two seasons due chiefly to the psychological effect of Europe's conflagration

No part of the price upturn that has occurred since September—40 cents a bushel in wheat 16 cents in corn 12 cents in oats and 23 cents in rye—can be traced to any increased European demand upon domestic agriculture grain experts said today In fact the war so far has restricted rather than expanded clearing of American grain surpluses to Europe

Nevertheless, amid talk concerning means of stimulating the flow of farm products abroad grain prices have stiffened not only because of war but also in the case of wheat because of the prospective small domestic harvest and unfavorable crop conditions in Europe In the case of corn withholding of 500 000 000 bushels from market under loans has been a factor

Spot wheat quoted here yesterday at $1 12 per bushel for No 2 red and corn at 72 cents for No 2 white are approximately the highest prices since October 1937

When the war began the United States had its largest carryover of wheat since 1934 and the world supply was the largest on record Belligerents however had big reserve stocks and as yet have not been in the market for unusual quantities

Grain exports since last July 1 have totaled only slightly more than 45 000 000 bushels including 19 000 000 wheat and 21 000 000 corn This compares with 102 000 000 shipped during the corresponding 1938 39 period

Because of a small 1940 crop Argentina now is virtually out of the world export market Canada holds the advantageous spot with its wheat is 15 to 20 cents below U S prices Its supply totals almost 400 000 000 bushels largest supply in Dominion history

OIL AND GAS CONTROL MEASURE ATTACKED

Gov. Bailey of Arkansas Tells of Danger.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 18—Gov. Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas today criticized a bill to vest control of the nation's oil and gas production in the secretary of the interior as a step towards dictatorship.

"One man given control of the conservation and production of oil would be indeed a dictator," he said in an address prepared for delivery before the National Petroleum association here. "From his decisions there would be no appeal," he added.

Governor Bailey, who ran for senator on a Roosevelt platform in 1937, has been increasingly critical in recent months of what he terms "federal bureaucracy."

Contending he had no quarrel with announced aims of legislation enacted by congress during the past seven years, he said, "I am completely intolerant, however, of the by-products of some of it."

He estimated there were 960,000 federal employes, a like total of state and local workers, and then added:

"If through subversive administration policies and legislation any bureau, man or agency in Washington can have control of the tenure and compensation of these nearly 2,000,000 public employes to the exclusion of the people, then there will have been developed a ruling class—or in any event the most fearful pressure group in the history of governments among men.

"Today, special privilege and monopoly have not been terminated. Instead of economic royalists, we now have bureaucratic royalists."

"GHOST" WALKS

A "ghost" in the form of Sholem Bernstein (above), 29, walked into Kings county court in New York and surrendered as a material witness in the investigation of Murder, Inc. FLOOD WALL WORK SET AT PORTSMOUTH

War Department Engineers To Be Ready Soon.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 18—Construction of the first unit of Portsmouth's (Ohio) flood wall will be started shortly by war department engineers under a program reported today.

Plans for the unit have been approved and returned to the Cincinnati field office for minor modifications which will enable the engineers to advertise for construction contracts.

Engineers predicted contracts could be awarded within two weeks—a month at the most.

Funds for initial construction already are available from a $780,000 allotment from the flood control appropriation for fiscal 1940.

Engineers said at least $1,000,000 additional would be available out of the appropriation for fiscal 1941. This allotment was figured on the basis of a total appropriation of $70,000,000 for general flood control, the amount recommended by President Roosevelt and approved by the house when it passed the war department civil functions bill.

Engineers said there was no basis for suggestions that the wall would not be started this year. Part of the current allotment of $780,000 has been used in developing plans but engineers said they had on hand $400,000 to begin work.

They added it was probable that at least $1,000,000 a year would be allotted for the Portsmouth project until it was completed at a total cost of approximately $5,500,000. On this basis, the development would be finished in five years.

The Portsmouth development will be an extension of a river wall built by the city prior to the 1913 flood.

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: Isobel rebukes Brenda for carrying on with Saltus. Then Mac warns her to keep out of the Abernathy affair, and finally Abner, himself, angrily reproaches her.

The Case Against Ned

"WHEN I heard Ned had skipped to California without so much as goodby to Alaine, I began to ask some questions," Abner went on. "It didn't take long to find out who had talked to him last. I can put two and two together and make four, even if I don't come from New York!"

He was out of the city limits by now and driving furiously. Brenda was interested to see with what skill he handled the small car despite his evident anger at her. She said soothingly,

"Ah, I wish you'd tell me why you're so set against Alaine's marrying Ned Barrow. If she loves him I mean? What do you have against him?"

"Plenty."

"The fight you and he had several years ago?"

He took his eyes from the road long enough to send her a glance of scorn.

"So he told you about that, too, did he? I suppose you know when he cut his first tooth, and what his grade in chemistry was when he graduated! No, if you must know; it has nothing to do with that fight. I'd forgotten it myself. I have"—he spoke with great dignity—"good and sufficient reasons of my own why I oppose—why I always shall oppose my sister's marriage to Barrow."

She was slightly impressed in spite of his youthful appearance.

"Everybody else speaks well of him," she began. "Judge Harper——"

"That old goat! What does he know about Barrow—or Alaine and me for that matter!"

She said neatly, "I notice you go straight to him every time Alaine threatens to elope. You evidently value the old goat's help in an emergency."

He had the grace to redden. "Well, I do. He's a nice old goat if you get what I mean, but he's old Barrow and I are—are contemporaries."

"You mean you know something about Ned Barrow that other people don't?" Something that in your opinion rules him out as a husband for Alaine?"

"You can put it that way if you want to."

"What is it?" she asked simply.

"Never you mind what it is! You can take it from me—Alaine can take it from me—that he's not the right man for a sister of mine."

She smiled and shook her head. "I'm afraid you'll have to be more specific, Ab, my dear! In this day and age girls want to know the truth about matters touching so closely on their own lives."

He pressed his lips more firmly together. "I might tell you, but I'm not going to have Alaine know. She's not one of your kind of girls — modern, I mean," he added hastily. "I've had to be father and mother to her," he said solemnly, "and I've guarded and shielded her. I'm not going to have her know any more of the ugly facts of life than is strictly necessary."

His companion suppressed a smile. "Well, I've not been guarded and shielded, so you can safely confide in me. And it's much better to have me your ally than your opponent, you know. What is this dreadful thing you know about Ned Barrow?"

"He's supporting a woman!" he blurted. "A woman and a child—his child, I haven't the least doubt. Now, does that satisfy you that he isn't fit for Alaine?"

The Whole Story

"It would—if I believed it to be true," she commented thoughtfully. "But—I wonder if it is, Ab? I thought when I talked to him that I'd seldom seen a nicer or finer face than his. Isn't there any possibility you might be mistaken?"

He felt in his pocket for his handkerchief and blew his nose scornfully. It was almost as though he had produced a trumpet to proclaim with a blast his contempt for her girlish weakness.

"Ask Mac if you don't believe me," he said finally.

That silenced her. She remembered the older man's words of the evening before. He had called the situation a "mess" and warned her to keep out of it. Exactly the sort of thing a man—a decent man who liked and felt a friendly regard for a girl a stranger—would say if the fact were as Ab had presented them.

"I think you had better tell me a little more about it," she informed him at last. "The—the details, I mean."

"Very well! You might as well know the whole thing now. Mac and I were in a drugstore downtown one day last summer. It was one of those places where everything on earth is for sale—where there's even a lending library. Mac and I were standing behind the rack of books, out of sight of the rest of the store. We both noticed a girl with a child—kid about two, I guess. She stood watching the door. Mac found a biography he'd been wanting to read so he dipped into it, and we weren't talking when—when Barrow came in. The girl gave a little cry, and he came straight toward her. They talked a while and then she said, 'Oh, Ned, have you brought the money?' And he just nodded—didn't say a word. She wiped her eyes with her handkerchief and said something about needing to buy clothes for the child. I nudged Mac and we both saw Barrow take out a handful of bills and give them to her. Then he patted the kid on the head and went out. But wait!" He hurried on as though anticipating interruption. "That isn't all! She called the baby Edward! Now if you have any explanation of that besides the one Mac and I put on it, go to it!"

She looked grave. "How did he act? I mean—was his manner nervous—disturbed?"

"It was furtive," he pronounced triumphantly. "He kept glancing over his shoulder and when he'd given her the money he got himself out of that store in record time."

"You never spoke to him about it?" Brenda asked.

He said heartedly: "Of course I didn't! Barrow's morals are none of my affair—not unless he tries to marry my sister."

"But—but surely the only right and just thing is to tell her—Alaine, I mean. If this thing is true—and I'm awfully afraid it is!—then it will put an end forever to anything between her and Ned. 'If it isn't——'

"I tell you I'm not going to have her mixed up in such a mess," was the dogged reply. 'Alaine's different from most girls of her age I've seen to that. Why even her bathing suits—" He fell into a bitter silence.

Brenda remembered the low cut evening gown which had precipitated the last quarrel, and smiled to herself. These ridiculous twins! Alaine proclaiming her hour's seniority over Ab, Ab declaring he had to be father and mother to his sister! They were absurd, they were incredible, but they were a little sweet and pathetic, too!

"Well, Ab," she told him, "there seems only one thing to do. Since neither you nor Mac will ask Ned about this girl, I'll do it myself. Certainly if he is supporting another woman—the mother of his child — he mustn't marry Alaine."

"Do you think he'll admit it? He'll just lie to you, put you off with some story, and you'll believe in him stronger than ever."

Brenda stiffened. "You forget that my profession is founded on psychology, Ab! I think I can tell when I'm listening to the truth—or otherwise!"

"Maybe you can," he muttered. "Maybe you can, but I'm here to tell you I'm going to keep right on fighting Ned Barrow away from Alaine, no matter what he tells you!"

They finished the drive in comparative silence. The hills which had looked so blue from a distance were scrubby and uninteresting at close sight. Brenda returned to the house angry at herself for having offered Barrow her help, angry at him for what Ab was pleased to refer as "his past life," most of all angry at Mac for knowing that she had interfered in the matter.

The next afternoon she consulted Hugh Saltus about it. He was standing before his desk, his busy pencil doing fascinating things which ordinarily would have occupied all Brenda's attention. His mouth looked a little more bitter than usual, his eyes less mirthful. Evidently the world was not behaving itself as it should so far as the artist was concerned.

"So there it is," the girl finished. "I do think it would make a grand marriage for her—Judge Harper says those crazy twins put all their extra capital into the farm and that they spend most of their income on plants and fertilizer for it. But of course if this young Barrow is actually supporting another woman——"

"At least it's to his credit that he's supporting her!"

"Hugh, that's a very unethical view for you to take of the matter," she said severely. "Either she has a legal claim on him, or she hasn't. If she has, then he should marry her. If she hasn't, then he shouldn't be blamed for what may simply be charity. And anyway, you're not being the least help to me. What shall I do about it all?"

Europe's Most Important Neutral

RUMANIA'S hint of unsatisfactory crop prospects, which might be only an excuse for curtailing the flow of supplies to Germany, nevertheless is a reminder that nature is Europe's most important neutral.

Bad crops in Europe this summer, combined with shortage of farm labor, could blow Adolf Hitler's plans for beating the British blockade sky high. He has had to gamble on the chance that enough food can be produced in the area under his control to feed his followers without recourse to export markets elsewhere.

The pinch would be felt by other European countries too, but only Germany has put all its eggs in the basket of self-sufficiency. It has cut itself off from the world's agricultural resources outside Europe and Russia. It has made a fetish of substitutes for many things, but the art of "ersatz" isn't far enough along to compensate for a general crop failure in its area of supply.

In fact, one realistic school of appraisal holds that invasion of Denmark and Norway was caused by nothing more mysterious than the appetites of 80,000,000 Germans.

The Public Gets the Idea

FIRES are being built and lines laid to bring the Hatch bill into the open again. It passed the senate a month ago, and has been gathering dust in the house judiciary committee, which a year ago let dust gather on the original bill for two and a half months.

Senate debate was sufficiently enlightening to give the public an idea of what is at stake. The two major parties are urging the excuse of a ban on "pernicious political activities" to set mousetraps for each other in the campaign.

Republicans hope to catch the Democrats, and the Democrats are hopeful of garrotting the Republicans. It is strictly a piece of internecine warfare, and the public refuses to believe in the good intentions of either side any more.

The Tin Fish War

THE focus of interest has shifted temporarily from submarine warfare to surface fleets and land maneuvers, but outcome of the submarine campaign is still vital.

During the week prior to invasion of Denmark and Norway by Germany there were virtually no Allied shipping losses. U-boats had been called home for another enterprise. Apparently, they are still busy with that enterprise. Commercial shipping still is relatively safe.

If, as Britain claims, it has gained control of the Skagerrak by laying mine fields, thereby closing Germany's free passage to the North sea and limiting naval traffic to the Kiel canal, the U-boat campaign probably has passed its zenith only seven months after the opening of hostilities.

For one thing, access by Allied submarines to waters covered by German shipping opens the possibility of counter-attack. German shipping in the Baltic sea, itself, may begin to feel the effect of Allied operations. Main effect of Allied naval pressure in the Baltic bottleneck would be, however, to restrict movements of German submarines to and from their bases.

Together with the other retaliatory measures which proved so effectual in the World war, this might end the tin fish war seven months after it was undertaken. In the World war it took the British navy the better part of three years to get the upper hand in its frantic struggle with Germany's U-boats.

Idiot's Delight

IT HAS escaped notice in some quarters that a new house of representatives will be elected next November, which may turn out to be just as important as the name and party of the next chief executive.

A highly specialized form of idiot's delight has developed in the field of congressional elections. Dopesters are its practitioners, the general public its victim.

The lunacy goes like this:

In 1938 Republicans won 79 house seats—70 from Democrats, nine from other non-Republicans. The Democratic majority was reduced from 231 to 89. With 50 more seats, net, Republicans would have a clear majority.

So far this year nine special elections have been held. In Tennessee a Democrat was elected without opposition. In the other eight elections the Republican percentage was 56½ per cent as against 53 per cent in the same districts in 1938. The Democratic percentage was 43½ per cent as against 47 per cent in 1938.

If the same switch in percentages were to hold in all 435 congressional districts next November, the next house of representatives would have 208 Republicans, 206 Democrats and 21 "doubtfuls." If the percentage were to fail to switch by as much of a percentage point as a certain soap isn't pure, on the other hand, there might be 208 Republicans, 208 Democrats and 19 "doubtfuls," a dead heat. It's enough to scare a man.

News Behind the News

McNutt Reported Winning Sympathy from Former Foes in New Deal Camp.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 18. —Mr. McNutt, who is now withdrawing from the candidates' concentration camp in the New Deal to campaign openly, has been quietly devoting much of his time lately to making character with the new dealers who have doubted him.

The Hoosier has been attending round table luncheons at the Cosmos club with Rooseveltian writers and New Deal economists, those who might be called the right fringe of the left wing. Expounding his political philosophies he is reported to have won sympathizers in this formerly hostile camp. They even helped him prepare his forthcoming western speeches.

This has put him in a position somewhat closer to the White House than earlier when Interior Secretary Ickes was barking at him apparently under orders. However, there is no evidence that Mr. Roosevelt has encouraged the McNutt campaign trips, either to stop the Hull firewagon as rumors or otherwise, nor is there indication that McNutt has any better information than anyone else about Mr. Roosevelt's intentions.

The federal security administrator is presumed to have come to the conclusion that this was his last chance and so decided to step out and take it. The comment common among the Democratic politicians is that Mr. McNutt's last campaign stop will be made at Waterloo.

Lewis.

John L. Lewis is still pursuing his own unique method of lobbying in congress. Instead of calling upon the legislators when he wanted to line them up against amendments to the labor act this week, he called them down to see him. They went and found Uncle John still favored the Hitler method of diplomacy over the British. No arguments were used. The conference was very short. The legislators were simply told, "You vote against these amendments or we'll sock you at the polls."

Tales.

Unconfirmable tales of the ruthlessness of Nazi rule in Poland are being told among house members by Dr. Tenerowicz, Michigan Democrat. He picked them up from refugees reaching this country. His estimate is 200,000 civilians executed since the occupation, mostly mayors, professors and other civil leaders.

A congressman back from a few days home in New England has reported a surprising increase in pro-Allied sentiment there, even to the extent of some isolated advocacy of American entry into the war.

Inner congressional determination for neutrality has shown no signs of weakening in the face of these or other significant recent developments. The Norwegian war break has in no way lessened the prevailing tendency to oppose any semblance of American intervention.

Navies.

Scarce publicity about secret Japanese building of colossal ships always blooms here in the spring at the very moment that congress begins actual consideration of naval appropriations. Admiral Stark, chief of operations, went further this year than usual in definitely disclosing Japanese building operations, because more definite information is available. He thought the Japs were building eight 40,000 ton battleships. Official United States lookouts believe there are 12. Even Jane's "Fighting Ships," an open book, reports the Japanese laid down four or more than 40,000 tons in 1938-39.

Not for this reason, but because Hitler's Norwegian venture has stimulated interest in hemisphere defense, naval appropriations will have little difficulty in congress this year. A naval congressman (Carl Vinson of Georgia) is predicting among his house colleagues that the Japanese will seize the Dutch East Indies when Hitler goes into Holland and raise a formidable question regarding disposition of Dutch possessions in our own front yard.

Disqualified.

Many unexplainable things happen in a sprawling government. An official of the veterans bureau told a house committee substantially this:

A veteran who lost a leg during the World war took vocational training at government expense and learned to be a printer.

Then he sought a government job as a printer, and was told he was not eligible because he had lost a leg.

Story of Narvik Battle

German Naval Commander Relates Eye-Witness Account.

The question of who holds Narvik still appears to be in doubt. The following eye-witness account of the developments, in which British possession is denied, has been made available to The Associated Press by a German naval commander who returned to Berlin after being wounded in fighting at the far north Norwegian port. Dispatches today, however, report that an Associated Press representative had visited Narvik and found the British to be in control.

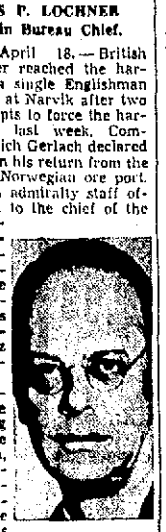
By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
A. P. Berlin Bureau Chief.

BERLIN, April 18.—British forces "neither reached the harbor nor has a single Englishman reached land" at Narvik after two spirited attempts to force the harbor defenses last week, Commander Heinrich Gerlach declared yesterday upon his return from the far northern Norwegian ore port.

Gerlach, an admiralty staff officer assigned to the chief of the destroyer flotilla in northern Norwegian waters, also told of the death in action of his chief, Commander Fritz Bonte, at Narvik.



Louis P. Lochner

Shortly after giving me the following diary of the Narvik action, the 33-year-old commander was decorated with the Iron Cross first class by Grand Admiral Erich Raeder and was taken to an unnamed hospital for treatment of a gash over his right eye, a dislocated right shoulder and a double fracture of the left arm.

"Let me just read from my diary," he said when asked just what happened at Narvik.

"You must excuse me if the items are merely jotted down and no effort at literary style has been made. Besides, naturally after being hit as I was by iron parts flying about, I didn't have much time to organize my material."

"We got to Narvik," he continued, "only a very brief period ahead of the English. (The Germans landed April 9.)

"Our troops were landed with the greatest speed. Soon it became evident how necessary this speed was, for only a short time after us British destroyers appeared before Narvik.

"Foggy weather alone had kept them from carrying out their command to invade Narvik the day before. Thus, in the final analysis, it was our better navigation skill which assured us of priority. We simply risked running into the fjord despite weather conditions giving poor visibility.

British Destroyers Attack.

"We had hardly set up our defences when the British destroyers, at first invisible to us, began shooting into the city. We started a counter-attack immediately.

"I was standing on the bridge of the destroyer on which also our commodore (Fritz Bonte, whose death in action was reported today by the high command) found himself.

"A hot fight ensued between our ships and our enemy.

"As soon as we started firing the English turned off. They were pursued by our destroyers which sank three British destroyers right off the bat and so badly damaged a fourth that it sank soon thereafter.

"Reports and detonations, repeated manifold by the echo of the mountains, resounded across harbor and fjord.

"Suddenly there was an explosion in my immediate vicinity. Our ship had been hit.

"Heavy pieces of iron hurled into the air struck me and I was later brought ashore wounded.

First Attack Repulsed

"The first attack by the English had been repulsed. . .

(The British reported they sank one destroyer and left others in flames in the first battle of Narvik. The British also admitted the loss of two destroyers. The Germans said they sank six British destroyers in the first two days of German occupancy of Narvik.)

"They later repeated their attack. In so doing they shot blindly into the city. They didn't attempt to concentrate on military aims. Dwelling houses on the harbor, rocks and Norwegian inhabitants who wanted to save themselves were targets for these planless attacks.

"Then came the major attack of Saturday. Our destroyers, still ready for a fight, warded off an enemy tremendously superior to us until the last grenade and last torpedo had been fired.

"Again the fjord reverberated with the thunder of cannons and with explosions.

"The Englishmen couldn't carry out their command to enter the inner fjord. They neither reached

Today and Tomorrow

Decisive Victory Seen Necessary To Pave Way for an Enduring Peace.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE question, on which almost everything depends, is whether the great struggle in which all the nations are involved can be decided and finished in this war between Germany and the Allies.

C. K. Smaltz, traffic manager of the Mansfield Tire & Rubber Co., was elected president of the Central Ohio Traffic club in its annual dinner meeting at Hotel Harding.

Walter Lippmann

The struggle is much larger than this war. For Japan, Russia, Italy, Turkey and the United States are involved in the struggle. They are not belligerents in this war. But none is indifferent and unconcerned. Some have ambitions which they hope to realize, and some have vital interests which they know they must defend; all are preparing themselves in accordance with their resources, their understanding of the issues, and the capacity of their leaders. With good luck and sufficient wisdom in their policy some of them may never become belligerents in this war. But unless this war can be ended decisively, the struggle is bound to continue and, therefore, to break out quickly and at many points all over the globe in a series of other wars.

It is necessary, therefore, to realize thoroughly why and how the struggle is fatally destined to go on until in this war, or in other wars which would grow out of it, there is a decision which is so conclusive that all the great nations can and will abide by it. The fundamental reason is that the nations are now mobilized and there is no conceivable way in which they can again demobilize until the conviction is general and unchallenged that there can be no great war for two generations at the least.

Without that much of a guaranty of peace for the future the millions of men now under arms and at work in the armament industries cannot hope to return to their ordinary trades and occupations. For the jobs from which they have been mobilized no longer exist, and civilian jobs cannot now be restored until there has been restored security against war and confidence in the continuation of peace.

What Mobilization Means

We must fix in mind what the mobilization of Europe means. To begin with there are the millions of men in the armies, the air forces, the navies. Many of them are peasants, and if the war ended they at least could return to their farms and eke out a living. But many millions are young men between the ages of 17 and say 23 who have never had a real job, who, when the war ends, will return to the cities looking for work. Many millions more are men in the late 20's and up to about 50 years of age who have left jobs where they worked on products that were sold abroad, or in shops which dealt in the small commerce of cities and villages and the little luxuries of the people of small means, or in the professions which were already crowded when the war began. These jobs, these shops, these professions are not there waiting for their return; they will have to be recreated by the restoration of commerce, by the saving and the investment of large sums of capital.

But the men in uniform are only a fraction of the men who are now engaged in work which is entirely devoted to war. There are thousands upon thousands in the airplane factories, the gun factories, the shipyards; there are multitudes engaged in making uniforms, and explosives. There are vast numbers engaged in the immense bureaucracy of war, in the administrative control of the harbor nor has a single Englishman reached land."

This came out in a recent round cussion under the auspices of Ame association. Representatives of the bar, press and radio took part. Quite a difference of opinion developed.

It seems the bar is generally opposed to the taking of photographs and the broadcasting of trial proceedings. The press is divided on the proposition of cameras in the courtroom. Some editors say aye, some nay. Radio wants the same freedom as the press. Its representatives at the round table thought use of microphones should be left to the discretion of the judge.

This second encounter, Gerlach said, he watched from the tower on a hill above Narvik city.

The British reported the destruction of seven German destroyers in the second fight and asserted their damages were only slight.

"I myself was received in a friendly manner in Narvik hospital together with our other wounded," Gerlach continued.

"The transport back home of the injured was started. Narvik city, harbor, and the entire hinterland up to the Swedish border were still in our hands when we left Narvik by airplane. And so I arrived today in Berlin for a report and must go to a hospital tonight.

"Up there, however, the crews of our destroyers stand ready to defend the soil. After having shot all their munition at sea they will now, after Commodore Bonte's heroic death, continue to fight on land in the same spirit and determination.

(This seems to bear out the British contention that the German destroyers at Narvik were destroyed and the Berlin high command's report that the survivors joined German forces ashore.)

"That's the contribution of our destroyers to the total action where Germany anticipating England's attack on Norway's neutrality. That such an attack was already in process of execution is given not only by British mines in Norwegian sovereign waters but we ourselves experienced it on the spot. We know that British destroyers intended to occupy Narvik for it was we who prevented them."

every form of activity, in censorship, in the secret police, in air raid defense. There are millions of refugees, of people evacuated from the danger zones, and in all the regions upon which Hitler has laid his hands countless men, women and children without homes or jobs.

To restore to a normal life and to peaceable jobs these millions of war workers and war victims is one of the most tremendous tasks that ever confronted mankind; it will be absolutely impossible even to begin to carry it out unless there is a certainty that it is safe to demobilize both the soldiers and the war workers and, also, that it is safe to invest the huge capital sums which will be required in order to create normal jobs for them.

Capital Mobilized

But that is not the whole of the picture which we have to fix in our minds. Not only are millions of men mobilized in uniform and specialized war industries but, in addition, virtually all the capital resources of Europe are mobilized as well. In order to create the armies and supply them, almost all the savings of all the people of Europe have had to be invested, without much hope of getting the savings out again; they have had to be invested in buildings, machines, engines of war, and materials which are being consumed totally or will be in peace time a vast encumbrance. Moreover, the existing peacetime plant—railroads, factories, houses, power stations, mines, ships—is being used up because it is not possible to find the funds to keep the plant in good maintenance. To set the industrial system going again so that it will serve even the minimum needs of the non-combatants plus the returned soldiers plus the war workers, it will be necessary to invest huge sums. Those sums will not be saved and they cannot be borrowed unless a peace of at the very least thirty years—a peace, we might say, that would last as long as the life of a long-term bond—is definitely assured.

The return of Europe to a civilian way of living will be immensely difficult even if peace seems perfectly assured. But, of course, there will not be even the faintest promise of security as long as in the heart of Europe there remains a regime like Hitler's, which has both the will and the power to destroy its neighbors without notice and in a few hours. Nobody will dare to demobilize. Nobody will dare to cancel the contracts for making airplanes, tanks, guns and warships. Nobody will dare to open up his frontiers and let the Nazis come in freely. Nobody will dare to open up markets to normal trade. No nation will dare to turn its capital from the support of armies and armaments to private industry or even to civilian public works and social services.

If Hitler Won

The same conditions, only in more aggravated form, will prevail inside Germany if it should happen that Hitler won this war or even got out of it with an inconclusive peace. For he cannot, even if it were in his nature to wish to do it, put his soldiers and war workers into normal jobs. This immense transformation of German life cannot be carried out without loans from the outside and without very free access to the markets, not merely of Europe, but of Asia, Africa, and above all the Americas.

Therefore, if Hitler promised peace, and even if he meant it when he promised it, he could not keep the promise. For what kind of civilian work can he provide for his troops and armament workers? He is bound to keep them mobilized. Otherwise they will be a seething mass of unemployed. It follows that the only way he could hope to make Europe and the world accept his victory, and supply him with materials, would be by continuing to terrorize the world.

CHINA, with its traditions and colorful background, was pictured in a talk by Mrs. Mary Brewster Hollister of Delaware at the annual guest day party of the Literature Study club last evening at Mrs. Little's tea room on East Church street. Her subject was "The Pageant of China." Preceding the talk a string quartet composed of Gene Smithson, George Lane, Gloria Rosenberger and Robert Smith, students at Harding High school, presented a musical program. Miss Carman Reveals Graham House Has Secret Passage.

LILLIAN and I leaned forward in breathless attention as Miss Carman untied the bulky parcel which she had said, contained maps we ought to copy. As she selected one of heavy parchment paper, yellowed and stained with age, my pulses quickened as I saw the heavy ink markings upon it, evidently indicating the walls of a room with door and stairs leading to a long, narrow, winding tunnel.

"I suppose I ought to explain something first," Miss Carman said slowly, "before you look at these."

My fingers itched to get hold of that old piece of paper with its cryptic markings, but I knew better than to hurry its aged owner, and I spoke with deferential eagerness.

"That would be best, of course," I assented, and Lillian "played up" by leaning forward with her face and eyes alight with interest.

Long-Kept Secret

"The explanation I am about to give you," Miss Carman began slowly, "is not a particularly creditable one to my family. Yet, it would have to be given for a number of families of that time, all of good standing in the community, all of whom are banded together in a secret that was never discovered, although there were some suspicions of it at the time.

"It is a secret known to few today," Miss Carman went on. "Each head of a household at that time passed it on to a direct descendant. But many of the old families have died out and the last descendants destroyed their records, as they were pledged to do when only one of a family was left. I shall do so shortly, for I am the last of my race, and my last journey looms near."

She paused and looked out of the window as if she already saw the beginning of the journey.

"We at this end of the island are not far from the big bays that lead out into the ocean. You know how lonely some of those bays are even today, and how lonely so many of the wooded places are here."

I nodded, for she was picturing scenes which to me spell the fascination of the east end of Long Island.

Centuries Rolled Back

"If they are lonely now," she said, "you can imagine what they must have been 200 years ago, when some of the seafaring men decided to evade what they considered iniquitous taxes upon things they wished to bring back from other lands."

My breath quickened as I realized the implication of what she was telling me, but I did not interrupt her by so much as a syllable.

"You know it is only a few miles from your farm house to the bay, if you go across the fields and through the woods," she said, and waited only for my nod of assent before going on again. "I am not betraying any secret when I tell you that there used to be a dozen large old houses along the old road to the bay, most of them set far back in the woods. Yours and one other, which I will not name, are the only ones left standing, and there is no one left of the family that built the other house. But each of those houses had a secret passage similar to yours."

So there was a secret passage in the farmhouse. Everything had led me to expect it, but I found the definite announcement of it infinitely intriguing.

"The mother house or base of all operations was located near the dunes and was supposed to be used for drying fish caught during the summer," Miss Carman continued. "But it had secret rooms, and on dark nights, queer craft used to anchor off in the bay and laden boats used to beach upon the sand so that all sorts of contraband goods could be lugged into the stone house cellars. A secret door and a long underground tunnel led to a lonely egress in another part of the dunes. From there carts brought the things brought from the stone house to the various forest hiding places which led, by other secret tunnels, to the houses of the men, a well-organized company who shared in the—smuggling—I suppose one would have to call it."

Miss Carman's voice faltered on the ugly word, and I guessed that her New England conscience was constantly warring with a certain secret delight in those intriguing sins of her ancestors.

"Of all those old houses," she said, "yours is the only one, I am sure, of which the secret has been preserved, or of which there are any maps in existence."

"Then how," I asked, too bewildered to remember that I had promised myself not to interrupt her, "has it been possible for those men to find out the secret of the passage? That is what they must have done."

Marion Sorority Presents Gift to Bride-Elect

MRS. ELSIE HENNEY, Mrs. Bette Clark and Miss Reva Lautenslager were hostesses when Alpha Chapter of the Gradale sorority met for a social meeting last evening at Ringer's Inn. Bridge was played, and during the evening Miss Kay McCann, a bride-elect of next Saturday, was presented a gift. An award for high score was won by Miss Margaret Hennigh and Mrs. Alice Collins was consoled. Mrs. Martha Jane Quaintance received the guest award.

Miss McCann, who is the fiancee of Russell Baird, was honored recently when Misses Laurel Hanley, Pauline Shelton, Mary Cae Hogan and Ruth Ellen Mounts entertained with a linen shower at the home of Miss Hanley on Summit street. Bridge was played, honors going to Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Seibert DuVall. Miss McCann received the floating award. An original verse directed her to her gifts, concealed beneath an arbor of flowers in peach and orchid. The small tables arranged for refreshments held favors of miniature flower baskets. Guests included members of the B. P. W. club and Mrs. F. D. Lakin, Mrs. Clark Metz, Mrs. Siebert DuVall and Mrs. H. Hadley.

Woman's Hospital Board Sets Date for "Gaieties"

A DATE was chosen and committees named for the "Gaieties of 1883" to be sponsored by the Woman's Board of the Marion City Hospital, at a meeting of the members yesterday at the home of Mrs. O. S. Rapp on South Greenwood street. Mrs. H. S. Hane and Miss Alice Hane were associate hostesses.

The "Gaieties," which promises to be a gala event, will be held on Thursday, June 20. Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment or to assist in financing some major improvement at the City hospital.

List of Committees

The following committees were named: talent, Mrs. Mabel C. Owens, Mrs. Robert C. Owens, Mrs. Philip Guthery and Mrs. Wilfred Schaffner; publicity, Mrs. David W. Evans; music, Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, Mrs. Harold Alexander; patroness, Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, Mrs. E. G. Siefert; tickets, Mrs. Francis J. Hurst, Miss Emma O'Brien, Mrs. John Courtright, Mrs. T. E. Sonnansine, Mrs. Daniel LaMarche, Mrs. Bernard Moloney, Mrs. John M. Gardner; program, Mrs. Robert White, Mrs. Wilbur H. Symes, Mrs. Hector S. Young, Mrs. J. A. Dodd, Mrs. J. A. McNamara and Mrs. Chester C. Roberts.

The annual observance of Hospital day on May 12 was discussed. As in former years the public is invited to visit the hospital on that date, and guests are asked to bring contributions of jellies or preserves for the hospital. Mrs. E. G. Siefert is chairman of the committee in charge of plans for the day, and she will be assisted by Mrs. T. E. Sonnansine, Mrs. Ray B. King, Mrs. Joan M. Gardner and Mrs. H. K. Mouser.

Miss Alice Hane was named chairman of the nominating committee for the annual election of officers at the next meeting. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Siefert, Mrs. P. T. Lewis, Mrs. F. R. Mann and Mrs. Alexander. The board will close the season with a picnic on May 15 at the home of Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer.

Luncheon preceded the business session and during the afternoon 50 towels were made for the hospital.

KRUSCHEN—NOW COMES IN NEW PLEASANT TASTING DELICIOUS "BUBBLING" FORM

Constipation Sufferers Overjoyed!

Since recent scientific tests were made public, Kruschen is winning new friends everywhere. And just listen to this—Kruschen now comes in a NEW effervescent form—sparkling—"bubbling"—pleasant tasting—and offers an IDEAL "daily" treatment for constipation.

Tests at a World-Famous Hospital proved that a "little daily dose" of Kruschen actually helps nature to produce her own gentle, pleasant "daily" bowel movements by keeping the waste matter in the colon soft, moist and easy to expel. Also a mild antacid and kidney stimulant.

Kruschen gives you MORE for your money, too! A jar costs only a trifle and lasts for WEEKS! And now that it comes in such delightfully pleasant form—why don't YOU get onto the "little daily dose." (Kruschen is also obtainable in the original "still" form.) Made in U. S. A.

EDITOR SAYS PAPERS FREE OF PROPAGANDA

U S. Newsmen Hear Portland Man in Capital

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 18—More propaganda is peddled in a seeing circle than in American newspapers Donald J Sterling managing editor of the Oregon Journal told the American Society of Newspaper Editors today

His presidential address opened the eighteenth annual convention of the society which brought to Washington more than 100 of the men who shape the editorial policies of the nations metropolitan press

The editors were told by Sterling that in major affairs the newspaper never was in a better situation to expose public wrongs which it has done in several cities since we last met notably in Kansas City and New Orleans while in Los Angeles and St Louis the newspaper is waging battle for press freedom against oppression by the courts • • •

With the passing years the newspaper has been expanded in its scope of service It had to be improved in order to survive And in order to survive it had to be solvent And being solvent it is not subservient And not being subservient the newspaper exemplifies the free press without which no democracy has survived and with which no democracy has failed

Daily circulations have increased 42 7 per cent in 20 years and Sunday circulations 84 5 in comparison with a population increase of only 24 3 Sterling said

HOUSE REJECTS OHIO PENSION FUND MOVE

WASHINGTON April 18—The house rejected yesterday an amendment to apply the Logan Walter administrative procedure bill to a decision of the social security board denying Ohios claim to $1 338 160 in pension funds

The board withheld a federal contribution for Ohio pensions in October 1938 as a result of an administrative dispute with former Gov Davey Congress later passed a bill to compel payment but President Roosevelt vetoed it.

Hull's Warning Grim Reminder of Delicate Situation

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Secretary of State Hulls warning (obviously directed to Japan) that the status quo of the Dutch East Indies must be respected is a sharp reminder of the delicacy of the political situation in the Far East

Blunt explanation of the anxiety for the safety of the Indies comes in the comment by authorities of the American British and French fleets in Asiatic waters that there is serious possibility Japan may attempt to seize the East Indies if Germany occupies their mother country Holland

This situation which is part and parcel of the Japanese conquest of China isnt new but it has been rendered more acute by the trend of the European war

Mr Hulls statement presumably was inspired by Japanese foreign Minister Arita's declaration Monday that Japan would be deeply concerned over any change in the status of the East Indies

Mr Aritas announcement was innocuous enough on the face of it but observers immediately thought they read between the lines a tendency to take a page from the Nazibook of wisdom as applied to the occupations of Norway and Denmark

You will recall that Berlin first remarked with indignation that if looked mighty like Britain and France were getting ready to invade these helpless countries Immediately thereafter the Germans themselves invaded both these neutrals remarking in effect

Sorry to have to do this boys but we are going to protect you from those allied bandits

Now the basis of the suspicion that Japan might try to occupy the Indies for their own good has been provided by highly placed though unofficial Japanese themselves They have made no bones of their desire to possess the Indies

The fundamental reason for Japans desire to possess these rich islands is the need of their oil and other products to help Japan in her drive to achieve self-sufficiency

Berlin Flatly Denies British in Narvik

By The Associated Press

BERLIN April 18—A categorical denial that British troops are in Narvik or that the British have been there at any time since the German occupation of Norway was issued today by DNB the official German news agency

DNBs statement said

On April 16 the London radio broadcast an official announcement that British warships had blockaded the entrance to Rombaksfjord Then under the protection of artillery British troops were reported to have landed in Narvik German troops were supposed to have retired to the hills where they found themselves in a pincers between British and Norwegian troops which were closing in on a mountainous region

It is established by informed sources that the British forces merely bombarded Narvik without effect no effort whatever was made to land at Narvik on April 16 Narvik was not only on April 16 in German hands but the Germans are there today April 18 and are in possession not only of the harbor but of the city

Norwegian troops who were supposed to have caught the Germans in a pincers were through the seizure of the Lofoten railway from Norvak to the Swedish border forced over the border leaving behind them dead and captives

In a later statement DNB said additional information received from Narvik early this afternoon reported the situation there unchanged

Not even British naval forces were sighted in the waters off Narvik the agency said

Italian Diplomat Declares Rome Won't Go To War

By The Associated Press

LONDON April 18 — An Italian diplomat commenting on recent signs of growing hostility in Italy toward the British French allies has told a leader of London's large Italian colony Don't worry—it's not war

Other diplomatic quarters in London expressed the conclusion that the show of Italian hostility was linked with Germanys drive to the north and to end belief that Italy would stop "just short" of war

Informed sources studying the tone of the Italian press theorized that Premier Mussolini agreed to his recent meeting with Adolf Hitler in the Brenner pass to begin a saber rattling campaign in the Mediterranean when the Nazis moved into Scandinavia

Doubt as to Italys intentions it was pointed out would cause France to maintain strong forces on the Italian frontier and reduce the number of allied troops available for duty in Norway It also would prevent Britain from reinforcing her naval forces off Norway with units from the Mediterranean

Britain herself showed an unusually open interest in Italys plans as Economic Warfare Minister R H Cross hinted to Rome that she ought to watch her step and that if she wished to be treated as a neutral she had better behave as one

This warning was sent out as the Italian press took a definite pro German turn and as four new classes of Italians were called to the colors The Adriatic port of Bari from which troops embarked for Albania a year ago was reported made a prohibited zone which which all unauthorized persons were banned but this was denied by Italy

British Minister Cross also had a warning for Sweden—that she must be prepared for a possible German lightning drive in her direction next

Plans to make a thorough survey of the amount of milk being sent into Marion and the cost of production were made at a meeting of the Marion County Milk Producers association in the county commissioners office Monday night.

SEEK TO ELIMINATE LONG ROAD DETOUR AT KENTON

Special to The Star

KENTON, April 18—The Kenton Business club, told that a U. S. Route 30-S detour would be in effect until July, 1941, while a railroad crossing elimination project is under way at infirmary hill, west of here, today sought action of the state highway department and the board of Hardin county commissioners to shorten the detour by widening a roadway across the county infirmary farm. Fred Dierksheide, club president, said that by widening the roadway all traffic, both east and westbound, could be run over the same detour, shorten the detour distance considerably, and permit removal of a downtown Kenton detour obstruction that congests traffic in the business district of this city.

ELECTION

COLUMBIA, Mo. — All the printers had to do to set up forms for an election was change the dates on the forms used four years ago—if they still had the forms. Three candidates ran, unopposed, to succeed themselves in office, for which they were unopposed in 1938.

FLEA HUNT

FOREST GROVE, Ore.—Dr. C. Anderson Hubbard's 5-year itch for a flea is over. He caught it. The Pacific university biologist, noted for his contributions to the British museum flea collection, found an unfamiliar "skipper" on a deer mouse. It was there by some mistake of nature, so he decided to look for the original carrier. Five years later he found another on a mole shrew. Several moles, all carrying the same strange flea, indicated they were the true hosts. Hubbard named the new flea "corypsylla Jordani" in honor of Dr. Karl Jordan, famous flea authority and curator of the British museum.

PURCHASE

IONIA, Mich.—The city of Ionia recently bought its own city dump for non-payment of taxes. The property, included among other parcels offered at a sale of tax delinquent land, was discovered to be owned by two citizens. The latter had paid no taxes for 15 years, believing the city owned the property. The city thought it owned the property, too. So, to make sure, City Clerk Raymond Coon bid in the dump.

THE ARCHBISHOP DIES

With a Name Like His It Should Be a Relief.

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, April 17—Stretched out on a cold white table lies the body of Wyxzzewixard S. J. Challoughlicllicliise.

Awed folk from cabins and cottages of Fishtrap road and apartments on Deep Elm street creep through the mortuary to see it because he was a big man—more than six feet tall.

They whisper he spoke 22 languages; was the father of 66 children and an archbishop in his church.

The undertaker awaits orders to send the body to Abyssinia.

He says the bishop of the Reformed Ethiopian Coptic church at Madero, Calif., telegraphed that the tall man was a prince of Ethiopia.

The old prince just laid down and died like a natural man. He was 93.

His calling card stated he was Wyxzzewixard S. J. Challoughlicllicliise, F.R.S.S., F.R.G.S., F.R.C.S.P., Ph. D., S.T.D., L.L.TD, prince of the royal house of Ethiopia, archbishop of the Second Ecclesiastical diocese of the Ethiopian Reformed Coptic church of Christ, Ethiopia, East Africa.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, April 19

UNPREDICTABLE crisis may make this day one of enduring memory, according to the strong position of dramatic and dynamic planetary forces. There are likely to be whirlwind adventures of a far-reaching and radical effect on the life and its prospects. Sudden upheavals, unforeseen changes in plans and surroundings, as well as associates, are imminent. There also may be romantic attachments, possibly unconventional, irregular or spectacular, such as elopements or sensational divorces. Such intrigues may be sinister and regrettable. Prudence, restraint and propriety may culminate in happiness and proper dignity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a spectacular, thrilling and adventurous year, with things of an unpredictable nature causing excitement and bewilderment. Intrigue, confusion, sinister entanglements, scandal and enduring regrets may follow reckless, ill-considered behavior and indiscretion, particularly in the matter of romantic or emotional attachments. With properly regulated behavior, directed into constructive channels, there is gain and satisfaction to be attained.

A child born on this day may be original and inventive, independent in thought and action, unorthodox and unconventional, with tendencies to the dramatic, sensational and intriguing. Under proper regulation it may make outstanding success, possibly in an unusual channel.

Lived in Island

n October 1937 to October Mrs W S. Haines and her daughter ved on the Island of c os from Manila When Haines was assigned to an lorship in Peking his fam- mmediately went there and e n ue the legation section n a compound which was a Rus sian military center when Cos sack troops were stationed in Peking

Mrs Haines prefers the old spelling of the city now shown on maps as Peiping Peking means Northern Capital and the Chinese pronounce the name "Bay ing"

Geographers historians and novelists refer to Peking as one of the most beautiful cities in China Walled in the inland city has retained the charm the cul ture and the true Chinese char acter which has disappeared rap- idly in the seacoast cities exposed to western trade western mod ernism and western enterprise

Here Mrs Haines said there were reports of guerilla fighting outside the walls sometimes the distant sound of gunfire but never at any time was there any fight ing within the city or any dan ger to its residents

Peking was taken easily in the war and is overrun by swagger ing Japanese she said but other wise it has escaped the ravages of war

Finds Chinese Superior

Mrs Haines found the Chinese people fascinating and the young women in their native costumes she describes as beautiful but the Japanese were more than dis tasteful Arrogant no particu larly clean short-legged bow legged the majority of them low- er class they are decidedly in ferior to the Chinese she found

Tsingtaus wide stretch of per fect beach lost its attraction for Chinese as well as foreigners when the Japanese began bathing without benefit of bathing suits and the cavalry horses were sta bled on the sands

Meet Folks From Home

In Peking last November Mr and Mrs Haines by chance met Dr and Mrs Ernest Wei s Meth odist medical missionaries who are the son in law and daughter of Mr and Mrs Harry Seiter of the Richland road

They met in the Union church where Protestants of all denom inations worship and where some of the most distinguished educa tors and missionaries in the world are guest preachers The two men struck up a conversation through a common interest in Texas As the two couples were leaving the church Mr Haines called to his wife that Mrs Weiss also was from Ohio It soon de- veloped that both were from Mar ion county Mrs Weiss the for mer Miss Hilda Seiter and her husband are attending the College of Chinese Studies in Peking now learning the language before they take over their missionary assign ment

Colorful History

Peking has one of the most ro mantic backgrounds on the face of the globe Mrs Haines relates It was established in 1264 by Kub- lai Khan, Mongol emperor of China who was born in 1216 He was the grandson of Genghis Khan who was the patron saint of Marco Polo

Inside the walls built in 1421 is the Forbidden City containing the Imperial Palace For cen- turies the Forbidden City was ex- actly that to all but those close to the imperial family Now it is a museum, open to all who wish to stroll through the beautiful grounds, the palace and the many temples

Most of the art treasures of the Forbidden City have been re- moved according to Mrs Haines either to other museums or to secret hiding places known only to the Chinese who would not have their priceless treasures fall into the hands of the Japanese

Practical Street Names

Peking and its suburbs have a population of approximately 1,- 300 000

Interesting and businesslike are some of the street names Em broidery street Lantern street Jade street Jewel street Flower and Bead street, Silk street, and Furniture street among others The name of the street designates the chief merchandise for sale on that thoroughfare

Peking is the home of the Pek ing Union Medical college French ing University which is compar able to the larger state universi ties in this country the College of Chinese Studies large Presby- terian and Methodist missions and several important Catholic mis- sions

Learn Native Language

Mrs Haines and her two chil dren speak Chinese but they do not read the language — except that Mrs Haines learned to read Chinese price tags The children picked up the language more eas- ily than their parents principally from their amah or nursemaid Neither the cook nor the houseboy in the Haines home spoke Eng- lish

Mrs Haines, a graduate of Lake Erie College for Women was corre- sponding secretary for the Pek ing Association of University Women

At one time an American dol- lar was worth $17 50 in Chinese money and the Americans in Pek ing made the most of this rate of exchange It was possible to buy the finest of fur coats for $18— $262 50 in Chinese money Fine porcelains exquisite china hand- made furniture jewelry all could be bought for in American slang a song '

In January of this year Mr Haines was assigned to the U S S California for maneuvers at Honolulu and Mrs Haines and the little girls started for home After a month's visit in Shanghai they booked passage on the Presi dent Cleveland After an un eventful crossing of the Pacific they reached San Francisco and came on to Marion by train

Living conditions in Shanghai are terrible according to Mrs Haines. The city is jammed with refugees including the Jewish families from Germany rents are completely out of reason the Jap anese are offensive and the city is altogether undesirable for home making

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D

Cancer Research

IN A large new beautiful building on a suburb of Washing- ton, D C, a score of men in white coats are carefully tending a thousand colonies of mice They take most tender care of them, and when a new litter is born, each is immediately identified by punching a notch in the ear One kind of a punch means it is a cancer mouse another kind that its pedigree is free from cancer All sorts of curious tricks of our enemy cancer are revealed by the study of these humble little animals.

Spontaneous cancer is not com mon in the lower animals Most of them do not live long enough to get into the cancer age So it was a great stimulus to research when it was found that the mouse was susceptible to cancer and tha cancer could be implanted in one The mouse is therefore the favorite experimental animal for research in cancer

The influence of heredity on cancer is shown by mice experi ments A two-year old mouse is like a person of 65 or 70 years Observers can therefore study many generations of mice repre senting thousands of years of hu man life within a comparatively short time

Taking mice and selecting can- cerous animals as parents, a strain can be produced in which 80 to 90 per cent of the off-spring de velop cancer On the other hand if the selection is away from can cer strains can be produced in which only one or two per cent develop cancer

There is evidence that the ten dency to form cancer in man may be inherited but the tendency is so indirect that heredity of cancer need not be a source of worry to any person

We spoke last week of public education as one of the three modern weapons against cancer Another of these three weapons is research

Research into the nature and cause of cancer is being carried on in many parts of the world There are a number of institutions in the United States devoted ex clusively to this work

Burton Attacks Schorr Indorsement of Dudley White in Senate Race

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 18—Mayor Harold H. Burton says an attempt by Ed Schorr, state Republican chairman, "to dictate the party's candidate for United States senator is an argument why I should be nominated."

Speaking in Ashtabula last night, Mayor Burton added to his platform the plank: "return of the party from the attempted dictatorship of a misguided state chairman." Burton added that he proposed "to be a senator of the United States, not the senator of Ed Schorr."

Referring to Schorr's recent personal indorsement of Rep. Dudley A. White of Norwalk as the party organization's senatorial choice, Burton asked that the chairman be repudiated "for going against the decision of the state executive committee not to take sides in the primary."

Schorr criticized Burton in a talk at Cincinnati Monday, asserting he was "not a good organization Republican" and that he "willfully and purposely misrepresented the recent Cleveland relief situation."

"Nobody ever promotes a relief crisis," Burton said in his Ashtabula address. "The last thing a mayor would do, for the sake of his city, would be to exaggerate a situation of this character."

MT. GILEAD HOMES CO. TO ORGANIZE TONIGHT

Directors To Be Elected for Housing Venture.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, April 18 — Mt. Gilead Homes, Inc., a local company to build low cost homes here, will be organized at a meeting of stockholders tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Globe hotel. Directors will be elected.

The company has been promoted by the public affairs committee of the Kiwanis club but is not confined to that organization.

Dr. C. B. Robinson, chairman of the committee, announced at the Kiwanis club luncheon Wednesday that anyone interested in the project of securing more homes here may subscribe for stock of the company. The shares are $25 each and $5,000 is required to launch construction.

This morning over $4,000 had been subscribed by local men and by tonight the required $5,000 will have been paid in, Dr. Robinson said.

The company will build 10 houses at once for sale to individuals.

In addition to electing directors the stockholders will adopt a code of regulations for operation of the company, which is capitalized at $15,000. No federal financing plan will be used as the company organizers believe the financing can be arranged through local banks at a saving to the company and to the individual home purchaser.

It is hoped that the 10 homes, which are to be built in one location, will be ready for occupancy by August. They are to be built in one location to save on construction costs.

Later another group may be built by the company, Dr. Robinson said.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE HARD HIT BY WARS

Loss of $1,300,000,000 Seen to Country in Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 18 — Britain's blockades in the Atlantic and Pacific, coupled with President Roosevelt's extension of the combat area forbidden to American ships, have interrupted or hampered American foreign trade involving nearly $1,300,000,000 a year.

Other wartime hazards and restrictions—the threat of German raiders, a Japanese blockade in the Far East, the "cash and carry" provisions of the neutrality act—push the figure even higher.

Experts here estimate that more than half of the country's foreign trade has been either eliminated or affected. The 1939 foreign trade total was $3,177,344,138. The combat area keeps American shipping from carrying goods to the country's principal market, northern and central Europe, where American exports totaled $1,172,948,023 last year.

(The commerce department reported yesterday that American exports during the first seven war months had increased 33 per cent. Part of this increase, however, was accounted for prior to the strict blockades and before the first—or central European—combat zone was proclaimed. Another portion antedated the recent extension of the zone to include northern Europe.)

What sections of the world are left comparatively unobstructed to American trade?

Asia, except for neutrality act restrictions applying to belligerent possessions. Total exports to Asia last year were $560,796,160.

Oceania, embracing Australia, New Zealand, British Oceania and French Oceania, to which exports totaled $79,505,231. Neutrality act provisions apply here, however, and German submarines or surface raiders may legally halt shipments of contraband.

Africa, to which America exported $115,110,354 worth of goods. Here, too, there are restrictions relating to the belligerents.

Not even the new world is free of restrictions. American ships may not go to certain portions of Canada and they may not carry war materials to Canada, to the British or French West Indies.

By contrast, American trade elsewhere in the western hemisphere is generally free. To North America exports totaled $806,552,026, and to South America $329,385,892, an aggregate for the hemisphere of $1,135,937,918.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

PHILADELPHIA PLUMBERS MUST BE HARD TO FIND

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA April 1 — Mrs. Michaelina Karpman 70 left her washing machine running and went to find a plumber nearby. She walked 38 miles before she discovered she was going the wrong way—and she never did find the plumber. She began her trek Monday and was found yesterday on railroad tracks at Coatesville Chester county. Her clothes were muddy and her shoes were worn out.

She said she became lost near her home and answering the Penn system railroad tracks led past her house she mounted the embankment and started walking.

POTATO TRAIN POPULAR

SALT LAKE CITY Utah—An estimated total of 60 000 persons in six western states left their farms to visit a special Union Pacific railroad train bearing an exhibit of Idaho potatoes diseases of potatoes and cures for the disease.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

PATTERN 4391

BECOMING DRESS WITH BOLERO

Sleekly demure or smartly tailored—here's a style that can change like a summer breeze. If fashioned of a sheer flower-splashed fabric. Anne Adams Pattern 4391 is very dainty. The front panels of the flaring skirt rise to a high point to give your waistline a span-of-the-hand effect. The bodice is soft and the graceful V-neckline and sleeves are pretty with lace edging. But if your mood is more tailored and trim you'll interpret the style in a sunny bolero and matching vest of dark crepe perhaps with a bodice of fresh white contrast. If you're really wise you'll make BOTH versions!

Pattern 4391 is available in misses and women's sizes 12 14 16 18 20 32 34 36 38 40 and 42. Size 16 dress takes 2¼ yards 39 inch fabric and 1½ yards ruffling.
